FAZtor’s Notes
By: Fr. Arnold E. Zamora

One day Jimmy got home early from school and his mom asked, “Why are you home so early?” He answered, “Because I was the only one that answered a question in my class.” She said, “Wow, my son is a genius. What was the question?” Jimmy replied, “The question was ‘Who threw the trash can at the principal’s head?’”

It is nice to be “home from home!” I was in the Philippines for a few weeks and then went straight to San Diego to attend our annual priests’ reunion. There were more or less 50 priests and 5 bishops who attended. On my way to San Diego, I was having breakfast at one of the restaurants in the SFO pre-departure area when a guy in front of me waiting for his order was scanning around for an open space. Since I was by myself, I invited him to join me at my table. Then we talked. When I told him that I was from San Francisco on my way to San Diego, he was surprised and felt strange because he was the exact opposite, who was from San Diego coming to San Francisco. Much more, he was surprised to know that I was a priest going to a priests’ reunion in San Diego. The reason for his coming to San Francisco was to go to St. Albert’s Priory in Oakland for a vocation discernment with the Dominicans. He was even more surprised when I told him that I am a Third Order of Preachers or of the Dominicans. It turned out that he is also a Lay Dominican and still trying to find where his vocation should be. Strangely, we met in time for the Feast of St. John Vianney, the patron of priests. I hope he will find a home in the priesthood.

I was happy to know that nobody died when I was away or at least they waited for me to come back home again. Upon my coming “home from home”, I had to deal with 4 funerals. Monday of last week, I did a funeral at Holy Angels Church for Josephine Alunan, the 93-year-old mother of a family friend. Then last Wednesday was the funeral of a special person close to everyone’s heart: John “Jack” Jordan. Jack was a fixture in our parish, being a long-time parishioner, a pillar of this church, the pillar and mover of the St. Patrick’s dinner, a member of Knights of Holy Name, and so much more. I don’t know what St. Patrick’s dinner will be like next year without him and also the Altar Server’s breakfast, as well as the Knights of Holy Name breakfast where he was also in command in the kitchen. He will surely be missed, not just by his family but his bigger family here at the parish.

This Monday will have another funeral for parishioner Romulo Villanueva, who has not only offered his sickness to the Lord but his whole life. Then, next Saturday is the Memorial Mass for Marty McCullagh, our 5th grade teacher Noreen’s husband, a man who kept his faith while enduring cancer. Marty is also the son-in-law of Mike and Kathy Gallagher, also very active parishioners. Our sincere condolences to all the bereaved families.

I am home again in San Francisco, but our departed dear ones are finally at home, in our heavenly home. May they rest in peace and enjoy being at home in God’s presence.

Lectio Divina
Read: Elijah, who is depressed and suicidal, feeds on the food of the angels and recovers. Anything that separates us from God saddens the Holy Spirit and we must avoid them. His listeners have a hard time taking in his “strange” teachings, but Christ insists that they take him seriously for their own good.

Reflect: “They shall all be taught by God.” It looks like a great honor to be taught by God Himself, but when God does so, people tend to shy away in disbelief. This is what we find in the reactions of the people to Jesus’ teachings. Such reluctance to be taught by God is presumably because what God teaches goes against our sinful inclinations and inconveniences us. But such reluctance is to our own peril and saddens the Holy Spirit whose passion is to help us understand Jesus’ teachings. What we need is an openness to the Spirit so that he can drive home what God wants us to learn, do and be.

Pray: Say a little prayer to the Holy Spirit.
Act: Do the Eucharist today.

What are the requirements for getting married in a Catholic church? There are a few things that need to take place before getting married in a Catholic parish:

1. Approval from the Pastor
   If you are not members of the parish, then you will need to get the pastor’s approval for the wedding to take place there. This might require a meeting or a phone call. Ultimately, you will need to get in touch with the pastor for this decision to be made.

2. The Interview
   First, couples will usually need to schedule a meeting with the pastor of the parish, the parochial vicar or the deacon as the first step in preparing for the sacrament of marriage. This interview is meant to introduce the couple to some of the steps they will need to take in the weeks leading up to their wedding. The meeting is also meant to make sure the couple understands the sacrament they are about to take part in and ensure that there are no impediments to entering freely into the sacrament (a previous marriage, mental illness, coercion, etc.).

3. Marriage Preparation Program
   Couples usually need to enroll in a marriage preparation program required by the parish or diocese. Often there will be different options available to you such as a day-long or weekend-long retreat with other engaged couples, meetings with other engaged couples over a period of several weeks, or a series of meetings between the two of you and a married couple who become sponsors or mentors during the time of your engagement. Most of these preparation programs are led by married couples who are eager to help you get off to a good start. The programs focus on developing a sacramental marriage that will last a lifetime.

   Couples usually spend time meeting with the pastor of the parish that they will be married in or the priest or deacon who will preside at the wedding. Couples can also meet with another priest in their geographic location if they are unable to physically meet with the priest who will be at their wedding.

4. Forms and Paperwork
   Church records need to be sent to the parish in which you will get married. Baptismal records, and certificates of First Holy Communion and Confirmation, need to be sent to the parish so that the date of your marriage can be added to the form.

   If one or both of you have been married, you will need to supply a Decree of Nullity, indicating an annulment of the previous marriage. There are likely to be other forms to complete as well as fees to pay for the amount of time it takes to process the paperwork and prepare the church for your wedding ceremony.

5. Wedding Planning
   You will need to meet with the priest to plan the wedding. They are likely to give you a copy of Together for Life to select your readings and prayers for The Order of Celebrating Matrimony and to reflect on your marriage together as a couple. The time you take to reflect on your choices of readings and prayers will be important leading up to your actual wedding day.

The Scriptures: God’s Word to you, and your word to the world

Couples are invited to choose the readings from the Bible that will be proclaimed at the wedding Liturgy. Normally three readings (one from the Old Testament, one from the New Testament letters, and one from the Gospels) are proclaimed. The Church provides many choices for each, and each parish provides resources with background on each possible choice. The Scripture is the very Word of God speaking to the Church. Couples should reflect on what they believe God is speaking to them as they enter into Marriage, and they should also consider what they want to communicate about their own faith to those who will gather to celebrate with them on their wedding day.

Vows: what you say, what you promise, what you live

The heart of the Rite of Marriage is the exchange of consent between the bride and the groom. In this moment, they, as ministers of the sacrament, express their lifelong commitment to love and honor each other, as the priest (or deacon) acts as a witness. It is often suggested that couples memorize their vows not only to experience the exchange of consent in a more powerful way, by speaking them from the heart, rather than repeating them phrase by phrase after the priest. In this they will also spend time pondering what the vows mean, and hopefully remember the words for years to come, as the words take on more and more meaning in their day—to-day love and care for each other.

Music: To stir the soul and lift the mind

Music for the celebration of Marriage not only adds beauty and dignity to the ceremony, but it has a more important liturgical function. In addition to music to accompany the procession of the ministers and the bridal party, music is an integral part of the Liturgy itself; the singing of the acclamations and responses by the assembly, hymns and songs at the entrance (gathering) and communion procession are prescribed in the Rite of Marriage. Music should reflect and communicate, above all, the mystery of God’s love in Jesus, especially as it pertains to the couple joined together in marriage.

Procession: Here comes the bride… and the groom!

Music should reflect and communicate, above all, the mystery of God’s love in Jesus, especially as it pertains to the couple joined together in marriage.

Ministries: More than just the bridal party

One of the important tasks couples undertake in planning their wedding is the selection of the bridal party. Couples invite siblings, cousins, and close friends to stand by them as attendants, who show their support by their close presence. They also perform a liturgical function as official witnesses of the marriage rite. There are other liturgical ministries to consider as well: readers to proclaim the readings from Scripture and announce the intentions of the general intercessions, family or friends to present the offertory gifts of bread and wine, or perhaps even servers to assist at the altar and extraordinary ministers of Holy Communion. All of this preparation takes place as couples work with the officiating priest (or deacon), who provides guidance throughout the process.

Family + Friends = Liturgical Assembly

Couples invite their closest friends and members of their families to be part of their wedding day. That gathering also represents the community of the Church, as they surround the couple with their encouragement and their prayers. Above all, it is an occasion for worship: in celebrating the sacrament, the couple, together with their family and friends, forms a liturgical assembly, who stand before the Lord with hearts open to his loving power.
