Just as Moses lifted up the serpent in the desert, so must the Son of Man be lifted up, so that everyone who believes in him may have eternal life.

2018 ANNUAL APPEAL UPDATE

THANK YOU FOR YOUR SUPPORT!
Introit’s “Laetare, Jerusalem” (Rejoice, O Jerusalem). The vestments for this day will be rose, as they are on Gaudete Sunday in Advent.

This weekend is also our Homebound Mass at the Flanagan Center, followed by fellowship and a reception. We thank the Lay Canossians for keeping this tradition, as well as all the many supporters of this ministry in our parish.

I had two funerals this week. One for Mary Lin-Sue Szeto, who lived to a ripe age of 96 years old, a devoted mother, grandmother and great-grandmother but most of all, a devoted Catholic attending our Chinese Mass every week. Another was for Ken Mathis, HN Alumni Class of 1966 - a cousin to the singer Johnny Mathis!

Think about this: When we die, our money remains in the bank... Yet, when we are alive, we don’t have enough money to spend. In reality, when we are gone, there is still a lot of money not spent.

A business tycoon in China passed away. His widow, left with $1.9 billion in the bank, married his chauffeur. His chauffeur said: “All the while, I thought I was working for my boss... it is only now, that I realize that my boss was all the time, working for me!”

The cruel reality is: It is more important to live longer than to have more wealth. So, we must strive to have a strong and healthy body, it really doesn’t matter who is working for who.

In a high-end hand phone, 70% of the functions are useless! For an expensive car, 70% of the speed and gadgets are not needed. If you own a luxurious villa or mansion, 70% of the space is usually not used or occupied. How about your wardrobe of clothes? 70% of them are not worn! A whole life of work and earning... 70% is for other people to spend.

So, we must protect and make full use of our 30%.

Life is short... Enjoy and live life to the fullest!!

A priest and pastor from the local parishes are standing by the side of the road holding up a sign that reads, “The End is Near! Turn yourself around now before it’s too late!” They planned to hold up the sign to each passing car.

“Leave us alone you religious nuts!” yelled the first driver as he sped by. From around the curve they heard screeching tires and a big splash.

For 75 years, CRS has been providing expertise and compassion to the very poorest of our brothers and sisters in more than 100 countries. But we can’t do this lifesaving work without your help. We put our faith into action to help the world’s poorest create lasting change.

The wider community regularly maintains that no one is in a position to judge other people, or that we should not be judged. One recent and alarming development is the false thinking that we cannot judge other people, that we should not be judged. The thinking has a name. It’s called moral relativism and it tries to claim that the morality of behavior is only determined by the person who does the act, or the context within which the action is taken.

Our Catholic tradition teaches us that a context is very important in trying to work out if someone is to blame for what they say and do, but that a person’s particular circumstances never change the fact that the words or actions are in themselves wrong. We hold that while all human beings have equal value and dignity, we do not believe that everyone’s opinion and actions are of equal worth. We believe that “right judgment” is a gift of the Holy Spirit and that it’s best exercised with humility and compassion.

When I hear people say I should not judge others, I assume they are telling me that I should not condemn other people. Indeed, we believe that many of these advances are gifts from God, given to us to enjoy. But not all developments in thinking and practices are for the better. Many of these advances are gifts from God, given to us to enjoy. But not all developments in thinking and practices are for the better.

The Gospel reminds us that if we feel condemned for what we have done and said, then it’s because we have condemned ourselves, not because God condemns us. John tells us that even God has forfeited his prerogative of God alone, who sees all, knows all and loves all. In today’s Gospel, however, John tells us that even God has forfeited his right to condemn the world, but has sent Jesus to be the world’s light, life, truth, and savior.

Today, the Second Collection is for our Parish Building & Maintenance Fund. Your generosity allows us to take care of the various needs of our Parish plant. Thank You.

March 11, 2018—Fourth Sunday of Lent

As Christians in the world we cannot help but be influenced by the developments that happen around us. Indeed, we believe that many of these advances are gifts from God, given to us to enjoy. But not all developments in thinking and practices are for the better.

The wider community regularly maintains that no one is in a position to judge another’s behavior or statements. This approach holds that everyone’s words and actions are of equal value. This position is many things, but it’s certainly not Christian, but this hasn’t stopped it from finding a home among us. We regularly hear statements from Christian men and women like, “We’re not in a position to judge” or “You can’t judge them” and “If it’s fine for them, then it’s fine”. This thinking has a name. It’s called moral relativism and it tries to claim that the morality of behavior is only determined by the person who does the act, or the context within which the action is taken.

Our Catholic tradition teaches us that a context is very important in trying to work out if someone is to blame for what they say and do, but that a person’s particular circumstances never change the fact that the words or actions are in themselves wrong. What a great metaphor the light and dark is for making the best judgments in our own lives. Alarm bells should always ring when we find ourselves not wanting anyone else to know what we have said or done. Secrecy is often the ally of sin and the more open and transparent we are, the more confident we can be that we are walking as children of the light.

May this Lenten Eucharist enable us to let go of the desire to condemn others and ourselves, and to receive again the compassionate, just, and humble gift of right judgment that helps us to see the darkness for what it is, and keeps us walking in the light of Christ.

Daylight Saving Time 2018: Clocks 'spring forward' this weekend. Ever wonder why?

Daylight Saving Time starts Sunday, March 11. It officially starts at 2 a.m. local time, so most people just move their clocks ahead one hour before they go to bed Saturday night. The change means sunrise and sunset will be about one hour later on March 11 than they day before, meaning you'll enjoy more light in the evening hours.

Since 2007, DST has started at the same time each year - the second Sunday in March. DST was instituted during WWI but abandoned soon after only to be revived in 1942 by President Franklin Roosevelt, again in an effort to conserve resources during a world war. The practice wasn't made permanent in the U.S. until 1973, when President Richard Nixon signed the Emergency Daylight Saving Time Energy Conservation Act.

Does DST save energy? It's debatable. A 2008 US Department of Energy study found American used only 0.003 less energy when the time changed. Another study from the University of California at Santa Barbara found energy levels might actually increase, due to people using air conditioning more during the warmer sunlight hours.

In 2005, President George W. Bush signed the Energy Policy Act of 2005 into law, establishing the current schedule. Hawaii and Arizona don’t observe DST. The US territories of Guam, Puerto Rico, Virgin Islands and American Samoa also do not observe DLS. Internationally, only about 40 percent of the world’s countries observe DST. Among those who don't are Russia, China, India and Japan.

The time will change again on Nov. 4 when clocks "fall back" one hour.

HOLY NAME TREE OF LIFE

The Holy Name Tree of Life is a bronze tree trunk with approximately 400 leaves. It is located at the back of the church. Donations to the Tree of Life go towards a much needed Capital Improvement Fund. Each leaf costs $500 with a $25 engraving charge. We suggest a maximum number of characters to 5 lines, up to 25 characters per line including spaces. Leaf color choices are gold, silver or bronze.

Do you know someone who is living or deceased? Do you want to remember them? You can suggest a leaf for the Tree of Life. Our Executive Director will contact you for more information or help you make your selection, or help you with wording and processing your leaf donation. Honor your loved ones whether living or deceased with a gift of a leaf on our Tree of Life.
