SIXTEENTH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME: JULY 22, 2018

I know very few people these days who work from 9.00am to 5.00pm. The eight-hour day seems to be a thing of the past. Where priests regularly encounter these new work patterns is when we see young people who are preparing for marriage in the Church. Sometimes to arrange a meeting we have to resort to a 6:30 am or 10:00 pm meeting. Some young people are working sixty hours a week. They take work home and work on the weekends. We know from surveys that they eat out most of the time, they party hard when they get the chance, and that Sunday is spent on the home front, going to the gym or sleeping. Then on Monday they start the process again.

Two things drive this obsessive work practice: competition in the job market, and the financial bonuses offered to the employees. The problem is that this practice cannot be a long-term strategy. At the other end of the scale we all know people, only in their 30s and 40s, who are burnt out and feel used by a ruthless commercial market-place.

This culture of exhaustion is not confined to the young corporate raiders. Most people in our country have never worked as hard, with so many claims on our time and energies.

Excessive demands on one's time, no matter how great the needs and rewards, were issues for Jesus and the Apostles as well. The best translation of the Greek text for today's gospel says that after the apostles returned from their missionary journeys "there were many coming and going and they had no leisure, even to eat."

Jesus' call to "come away by yourselves to a deserted place and rest a while" is not just about good work practices and ethical employment policy. It is about humanizing our work, making sense of what we do and seeing our work as means to an end, not an end in itself.

The social teaching of the Church, especially in Pope John Paul's statements about labor and the rights of workers, repeatedly stresses three aspects to work:

—it gives us dignity. Governments and employers must not allow a work culture to develop where we lose our sense of personal importance, where we are treated like just another cog in the wheel;

—work enables us to improve the standard of living for us and our families;

—through working we develop our talents and gifts which builds up society as a whole.

Rest from work is a key factor in the success of all three aspects being achieved in any community. A culture of exhaustion militates against them. The bottom line in all this is appropriate boundaries.

Mark tells us today that though Jesus was moved to compassion by the needs of the crowd, he also knew that their needs were not the only ones that had to be met. Jesus teaches his disciples and us that the balance between work and rest is an obligation of faith. This applies equally to work inside and outside the family home.

So this Sunday's Gospel carries a critical message for the modern world. Rest, recreation and leisure are not indulgences about which we should feel guilty. They are rights defended by Christ which protect our human dignity.

I hope today you have a well-earned break.

Lectio Divina

Read: Yahweh rightfully expresses His anger and frustration at the kind of shepherds who, instead of caring for the sheep, scatter them. Jesus, the good shepherd, forgoes his rightful rest out of compassion for the sheep and ministers to them. Christ, the true shepherd, gathers the scattered and unites them in his body—he is our peace.

Reflect: There is a great need for shepherds who deeply care for the sheep, who would even lay down their life for their sheep, who have deep compassion as their core emotion. If in some places the Church has failed to be an instrument of peace and transformation, perhaps it is because of the failure of the shepherd whose primary interest does not lie with the sheep, but elsewhere. But before we place our blame on others, we shall remind ourselves that as Christians, each one of us is called to be a shepherd to others.

Pray: Pray for shepherds after the heart of Jesus, the Good Shepherd.

HOLY NAME SCHOOL CAPITAL CAMPAIGN

In 1938 the first pastor of Holy Name Parish began going door to door, asking for support to create a Catholic School that would serve the children of San Francisco's Sunset district. Thanks to Father Ryan's vision and determination, the Sunset sand dunes were replaced with Holy Name's foundation that has kept thousands of students safe for decades.

Over the past 76 years building codes and safety standards have continued to change, and we are now faced with the opportunity to strengthen not only the walls of our school, but also the legacy it holds and offers. After undergoing a required phased evaluation by the City of San Francisco, it was determined that Holy Name School could further strengthen its building through a seismic retrofit project.

Just as Father Ryan was excited to campaign in making his dream a reality, so too are we. Though we are strong and steady school, we are excited and ready to move our school forward by meeting the safety standards of our generation.

We hope that you will join us in our Capital Campaign so that we can preserve Holy Name's traditions and legacy for future generations, just as our past generations have done for us. Together let us keep the hallways of Holy Name School safe for all students—present and future.

OUR GOAL, OUR PROMISE

Our goal is to keep Holy Name School safe for our students and the many that will fill the hallways in the years to come.

Our promise is that we will complete our Seismic Retrofit Project by 2019 so that we can keep our doors open to future generations and preserve the legacy that earlier generations laid for us.
